1. INTRODUCTION

Welcome to the PG Diploma Programme in Environment and Sustainable Development (PGDESD). This programme has been developed by the School of Sciences, IGNOU in collaboration with SAFLI, and the Open Universities of the SAARC region, namely, the Open University of Sri Lanka (OUSL), Bangladesh Open University (BOU), the Allama Iqbal Open University (AIOU), B R Ambedkar Open University, Hyderabad, India (BRAOU) and BRAC University, Bangladesh.

South Asia is an important region of the world. It covers only 5.38 percent of the total land area but inhabits more than 20 percent of global population and is a land of extreme diversity in all respects. It faces the problems of acute population pressure, abject poverty and development without environmental safeguards that have resulted in irreparable environmental degradation and depletion of natural resources. Consequently, in South Asia, the highest priorities are poverty alleviation, population management and pursuing the goal of environmentally sound and sustainable development.

The idea of environmentally sustainable development has gained growing recognition in recent years as an approach to environment and development issues in which the requirement to satisfy human needs is balanced with the capacity of the environment to cope with the consequences of economic development. Thus the need for continued economic development and growth is fully recognized, but it should be promoted in a manner, which does not jeopardize the position of vulnerable people nor depletes the future viability of the earth’s environment and resource base. Environmental protection and sustainable development are two sides of the same coin.

The vision of environmentally sustainable development encompasses the goal of attaining mutually complementary economic, environmental and social well being for everyone, on an ongoing basis. It identifies a direction of change. Movement in the direction of this vision requires action at international, national, regional, and community levels. This programme is an outcome of such a vision of educationists and environmentalists of the SAARC countries.

The objectives of this programme are to:

- disseminate information and exchange knowledge and experiences gained in the pursuit of the goal of sustainable development.

- strengthen regional co-operation in environmental capacity building especially in the area of environmental management.

- educate and train individuals from different walks of life viz. development functionaries, government officials, journalists, policy makers, farmers, industrialists, grass-root workers, environmentalists who have a stake in protecting the environment as well as ensuring a better quality of life for the peoples of their countries.

In this Programme Guide, we will tell you about the University, SAFLI, and about the various courses in the PGDESD. It also contains the main rules and regulations and useful forms. You can xerox and use them as and when you need them.

You must keep this programme guide carefully as you will have to refer to it from time to time.

3. INTRODUCTION TO SAFLI

South Asia Foundation is a voluntary, secular, non-profit and non-political youth movement, which seeks to promote greater solidarity, understanding, cooperation, peace and progress through education and sustainable development among the peoples of South Asia.

Founded by UNESCO Goodwill Ambassador Madanjeet Singh, South Asia Foundation (SAF) is based in Switzerland and its seven SAF Chapters are registered in SAARC countries as national entities guided by eminent Chairpersons and their respective Advisory Boards.

SAF Learning Initiative (SAFLI) is an ambitious education project of SAF to link a number of Open Universities and other institutions in the SAARC countries and to provide students of SAARC countries a wider choice of subjects including well designed programmes on South Asian studies. The Post Graduate Diploma in Environment and Sustainable Development (PGDESD) is the first such programme, which encompasses issues like sustainable development, women's empowerment, the environment, peace, cooperation and development, sustainable energy for development and human rights.

MED 001  UNDERSTANDING THE ENVIRONMENT  4 Credits

The environment is the sum total of living and non-living life supporting factors and the circumstances that surround an individual or a community. This course entitled Understanding the Environment provides a complete picture of our environment in its natural setting. It has four themes: Our environment and its component introduces the concept of the environment and discusses the lithosphere, atmosphere and the hydrosphere, which are closely associated with the biosphere. They provide the life supporting physical factors for life; Living components of the environment describes the characteristics and the types of living organisms along with their major life zones on land and in water; The ecosystem and its functioning explains the concept of the ecosystem, the basic functional unit in the environment, that allows us to understand the complex interactions between living organisms and the life supporting physical and biological factors in the biosphere; People and the Environment details the impact of human activities on environment including the environmental degradation and environmental pollution caused due to population growth and over-exploitation of natural resources.

MED 002  SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT: ISSUES AND CHALLENGES  4 Credit

Nature has supported and maintained life on earth since times immemorial and will continue to do so in the future. This capacity of the earth is known as the sustainability of nature or ecosystems or environment. But, once the alteration of nature’s initial state occurs, its ability to revert back is lost. The anthropocentric activities of development like industrialization have led to the indiscriminate exploitation of natural resources. The problem has attained global dimensions and has brought us to a position where not only the other life forms on this planet, but also the very existence of mankind are threatened. With the concern for development without degrading socio-economic and environmental conditions, and the realization that there is a limit to nature’s sustainability, people across the world have come together to deliberate and adopt the policy of sustainable development. This course entitled ‘Sustainable Development: Issues and Challenges’ seeks to explore the origin of the concept of sustainable development and the issues and challenges of sustainable development. It also aims at highlighting the initiatives taken at the local, regional, national and international levels towards sustainable development. It further explores the strategies that need to be developed to hasten the process of sustainable development.

MED 003: ENERGY AND ENVIRONMENT 4 Credit

The large scale and pervasive nature of energy related human activities have perhaps made the greatest impact on the environment. Although energy and environment concerns were originally local in character, they have now widened to cover regional and global issues such as acid rain and the greenhouse effect. Such problems have now become major political issues and the subject of international debate and regulation. The concept of sustainable energy development has widened over a period of time to include economic, environmental, and social aspects, based on realities and constraints perceived by society. In a sustainable development perspective, we must address the quality and sustainability of our use of natural resources and ecosystems, the impact of production and use of energy, which is essential to our economies and, to our way of life. Further, environmental degradation and lack of access to clean affordable energy services affect the poor. These issues are also global as climate change, loss of bio-diversity and ozone layer depletion affect countries worldwide. This course addresses the current concerns related to energy and environment; policies and planning; economics of energy and environment; and energy, sustainability and environment.
MED 004 TOWARDS PARTICIPATORY MANAGEMENT 4 Credit

Participation as defined by United Nations Research Institute for Social Development (UNRISD) is an organized effort to increase control over resources and regulative institutions by groups and movements of those excluded from such control. Resources are one key (but neglected) aspect of the participatory decision-making process; the devolution of control over resources to local people is a procedure, which has been too little tried in development process. Organizations with resources are generally anxious to keep control over them; a positive institutional development approach will use the devolution of resources to build local management capacity. The quality of interaction between professionals, managers, politicians and ordinary people is another, better developed aspect of participatory process. Here there has been tremendous development of participatory techniques designed to bring outsiders and insiders to a closer understanding and respect of each other.

This course is designed to enable the students to explore the knowledge and skills required for working successfully with individuals in groups to integrate the conservation efforts with development through participatory process. They will be encouraged to think about and reflect on their successes and difficulties. The course also covers how other people have worked for participatory community development, and their theories about their work. The theory and practice of participatory community development will also be explored.

The course introduces the key concept of participatory management with a historical review; explaining state policies and programmes. Then it discusses the models of participatory management in South Asia and the approaches and practices to participatory management of resources followed by information about programmes and services in the area of participatory management with special focus on women and youth. Finally, salient issues related to the management of natural resources through participatory process are analysed.
Since the Rio Summit in 1992, intense interest and concern in processes of environmental degradation at local, regional and global level had developed. However, it soon became clear that reversing such degradation would not be a purely technical and managerial matter. All the technical knowledge in the world does not necessarily lead societies to change environmentally damaging behaviour. Hence, a critical understanding of socio-economic, socio-cultural, legal and political, and moral and ethical structure of the society has become of central importance in approaching the environmental problems. Most of these are complex problems whose solution will require people capable of grasping the big picture, able to appreciate and deal with complex problems and to support strategies having long-term impact. This is only possible by integrating environmental ideology into socio-economic, socio-cultural and ethical systems. There is a dire need to develop an environmental ideology based on a system of collectively held normative reputedly factual ideas, beliefs and attitudes advocating a particular pattern of social relationships with the environment and arrangements aimed at justifying a particular pattern of conduct towards environment. There is an increasing realization among environmental professionals that industry is now a permanent part of the environment. Therefore, efforts are being made by engineers, natural scientists and policy-makers to “internalise” industry within the ecological discourse. A salient feature of this new approach is its emphasis on the harmonization of various environmental disciplines and endeavours. Hence, the concept of "integrated environmental management" has emerged in the last few years and forms the subject matter of this course.
The study of Natural Resources Management is essential in a programme of this nature since resources are needed for almost everything we do to meet our needs. When we decide what to do, what to buy, use or eat, we are making a decision about what resources to use and how to use them. The way we use our resources has an impact on the environment and is integrally linked to sustainable development; at present as well as for the future. In this course, we introduce the scientific concept of natural resources, how resources are being used, what action can be taken to conserve natural resources and manage them judiciously so that our current needs are met equitably without compromising their availability for the future generations.

MED 006: NATURAL RESOURCE MANAGEMENT: PHYSICAL AND BIOTIC 4 Credit
Agriculture forms the backbone of economic activity in South Asian countries. The major challenge facing all countries in this region today is to feed an ever growing population without degrading the environment further and without further increasing pressures on a finite resource base. In the next 25 years, South Asia's food requirements are likely to double, while its natural resource base is likely to shrink. The Indian subcontinent itself accounts for 21 percent of the world's population on just 3 percent of its land area. The only recourse for these countries is to increase agricultural productivity from existing lands through environment-friendly practices.

Safety of natural resources is of prime concern in order to ensure productivity, profitability and sustainability of agriculture for the present and future. The need of the hour is to strike a balance between the two diametrically opposite processes of exploitation and conservation. To achieve this, environmental protection, resource conservation and its rational utilization must form an integral part of all agricultural activities and processes. This course on Agriculture and Environment is being offered to address these very concerns.

Globalisation, through large scale development interventions, has the capacity to order and reorder human lives. It is often hailed as an opportunity that would open up new vistas for many a nation. But it has had negative effects on the environment, thus transforming the local environmental problems into global issues. Globalisation has placed greater stress on energy production, resource extraction, thus enabling changes in the global climatic conditions and biodiversity. Though consumption of resources is common to any economic system and its growth, unlimited resource use will eventually trigger an irreversible crisis. The environmental problems are increasingly trans-boundary and global in scope and significance, leading to increasing levels of poverty, ecological destruction, social inequalities and uneven distribution patterns leaving the global community to search for effective alternatives.

The absence of a simultaneous empowerment of the local communities in tackling these crises has deprived the system of necessary checks and counterbalances. The international community has come together to formulate policies that would help restore the nature leading to the Rio Earth Summit, 1992. It is one of the most comprehensive frameworks ever designed for global environmental management. But the non-conformity by many developed countries and the lack of necessary infrastructure and finances in developing countries has rendered it ineffective. This course examines the diverse issues related to globalisation and environment under four heads: Global Concerns, Global Responses, Global Movements and Experiences, and Emerging Concerns. Environmental Standards, technology concerns, role of the UN Agencies, International Laws and Agreements, initiatives from NGOs and people. The emerging concerns such as sustainable use of Biodiversity and its protection, greening of business around the globe and people’s right for clean environment have been highlighted. Some case studies from South Asian countries have been discussed.

5. STUDYING THE COURSES

The study of various courses in the programme involves:

- Studying print materials on your own,
- Listening to audio programmes,
- Doing assignments.
The Print Materials

The print material of each course is divided into blocks. Each block has a number of units. The first page of each block indicates the numbers and titles of the units comprising the block. In the first block of each course, we start with the course introduction. This is followed by a brief introduction to the block.

We expect you to read the course introduction and the block introduction as these give you an overview of the course/block.

The objectives given in each unit outline what you are expected to accomplish after studying it.

Each unit ends with a summary giving its main points and a set of terminal questions. Many units have references for further reading, if you wish to study the topics in depth.

6. ASSESSMENT

The evaluation of each course consists of two components: (1) continuous evaluation through one assignment, and (2) term-end examination. You must pass both in continuous evaluation as well as in the term-end examination (TEE) of a course to earn the credits assigned to that course. In the final result, the assignment in each course carries 30% weightage while 70% weightage is given for the term-end examination. You are required to score at least 35% marks separately in the continuous evaluation (assignment) and the term-end examination for each course. In the overall computation also, you must get at least 35% marks in each course to earn the certification. The Division will be awarded on the basis of total marks obtained by you in all courses, as per details given below:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Marks</th>
<th>Classification</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>60% and above</td>
<td>First Division</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>50% and above but below 60%</td>
<td>Second Division</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>35% and above but below 50%</td>
<td>Pass</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Less than 35%</td>
<td>Unsuccessful</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

If you fail to score at least 35% in the TEE of any course, you can appear in the subsequent TEE for that course up to three years, the period for which your registration is valid.

Assignments

Assignments constitute the continuous evaluation component of the courses. The marks that you get in your assignments carry 30% weightage and will be counted in your final result. Therefore, you are advised to take your assignments seriously.

There will be one assignment for each course. You have to complete the assignments in time. Assignment Submission Deadlines are as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Cycle</th>

</tr>
</tbody>

You will not be allowed to appear for the term-end examination for a course if you do not submit the assignment for each course within the deadline given above. If you appear in the term-end examination of a course without submitting its assignment, the result of the term-end examination is liable to be cancelled/with held.
The main purpose of assignments is to test your comprehension of the learning material you receive from us. Whenever you receive a set of assignments, check them immediately and ask for missing pages, if any, from the concerned Regional Director or the Coordinator of your Study Centre. The assignment responses should be complete in all respects. Before submission, you should ensure that you have answered all the questions in all assignments. Incomplete answer sheets bring you poor grades.

The University/Coordinator of the Study Centre has the right to reject the assignments received after the due date. You are, therefore, advised to submit the assignments before the due date.

For your own record, retain a copy of all the assignment responses which you submit to the coordinator of your Study Centre. If you do not get back your duly evaluated tutor marked assignments along with a copy of assessment sheet containing comments on your assignments by the evaluator within a month after submission, please try to get it from your study centre personally. This may help you to improve upon future assignments.

7. OTHER USEFUL INFORMATION

7.1 Change/Correction of Address and Change of Study Centre

A printed card for change/correction of address and change of Study Centre is dispatched along with the study material. In case there is any correction/change in the address, you are advised to make use of the proforma (Form 1) provided in the Programme Guide and send it to the Regional Director concerned who will forward the request after verifying the student’s signature to SRD (Student Registration Division), Maidan Garhi, and New Delhi - 110068. Requests received directly at SRD, New Delhi will not be entertained. The form of change of address can also be downloaded from IGNOU website: www.ignou.ac.in. You are advised not to write letters to any other officer in the University in this regard. Normally, it takes 4-6 weeks to effect the change. Therefore, you are advised to make your own arrangements to redirect the mail to the changed address during this period. In case you want a change of Study Centre, you are advised to fill the proforma and address it to the Regional Centre concerned. Since counselling facilities are not available for all Programmes at all the centres, you are advised to make sure that counselling facilities are available, for the subject you have chosen, at the new centre opted for. Request for change of Study Centre is normally accepted subject to availability of seat for the programme at the new centre asked for. Change of Address and Study centre are not permitted until admissions are finalized. Similarly, change of study centre is not permissible in programmes where practical components are involved.

If you want transfer from one region to another, you have to write to that effect to the Regional Centre from where you are seeking a transfer marking copies to the Regional Centre where you would like to be transferred to. Further, you have to obtain a certificate from the Coordinator of the Study Centre from where you are seeking transfer regarding the number of assignments submitted. The Regional Director from where you are seeking the transfer will transfer all records including details of fee payment to the new Regional Centre under intimation to the Registrar, SED and you. In case you are keen for transfer from Army/Navy/Air Force Regional Centre to any other Regional Centre of the University during the cycle/session, you would have to pay the fee-share money to the Regional Centre. In case you seek transfer at the beginning of the session/cycle the required programme course fee for the session/cycle shall be deposited at the Regional Centre. However, the transfer shall be subject to availability of seats wherever applicable.

7.3 Non-receipt of Study Material

If you do not receive your study material within a month after admission, fill up Form 2 and send it to the address mentioned on it.

7.4 Simultaneous Registration

Students who are already enrolled in a programme of one year or longer duration can also simultaneously register themselves for any certificate programme of 6 months duration. However, if there is any clash of dates of counselling or examination schedule between the two programmes taken, the University will not be in a position to make adjustment.

7.5 Refund of Fee

- Fee once paid will not be refunded under any circumstances. It is not adjustable against any other programme of this university.
- In cases, where the University denies admission, the programme fee will be refunded after deduction of the registration fee through A/C payee cheques only by concerned RC.
